PECK RESIDENCE BURNED.

No Means to Fight the Fire—House a Total Loss—Furniture Saved.

The beautiful and luxurious home in Pueo belonging to Philip Peck was consumed by fire last Monday morning. In less than an hour after the fire gong sounded the alarm, "Wehikulani" was a pile of ashes and glowing embers, swirled about by the gusts of wind that blew hard over Hilo that day. Within that hour, in fact in an half hour's space, the men who rushed to the scene, had entered the house that was doomed, and stripped it of almost every vestige of furniture. The big yard, the street and the neighboring yards were piled high with the rich furnishings that made the hospitable home of the Pecks so attractive. Pictures from the walls, fragile china from the cupboards, lace curtains, cabinets of rare cut glass, beds, chairs, piano, bath tubs, wearing apparel and every loose thing was literally snatched from the flames. The damage and breakage resulting from the confusion was remarkably small. And when there was nothing more to be carried out, men still ran through the house and with hammers removed heavy plate glass windows and the big front doors with the flames curling about their heads.

Never was fire more grudgingly yielded its prey. Men were quickly on hand to cope with the fire, on receipt of the first alarm. But they were without the means. The garget was a mass of flame and smoke soon after it broke through the roof and the first to arrive saw plainly that Hilo's finest dwelling house and one of the most hospitable homes was to be winked out like a straw, while eager hands were willing to do battle with the flames. The crowd wanted to fight fire; the next best thing was to save the furniture. This task was undertaken with a rush. Through every window and door the rooms were denuded of the things that had made them a home and which had imparted to the splendid structure the characteristics and personal attributes of the family which lived there.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Peck as she passed through Mr. Peck's room. The only persons in the house were Mrs. Peck and two daughters, Stella and Emily Peck, and the servants. Mr. Peck was absent in Honolulu. Mrs. Peck called out to her daughters and the alarm given by telephone. The first or among the first men on the spot were Castle Ridgway, Jack Easton and E. Fuhr. They rushed up the stairs and could see fire in the linen closet. They then went up the stairs leading to the garret. They found it full of smoke and flames which had just broken out through the roof on the north side. Soon after the crowd began to arrive. All the fire hose in Hilo would have been too short by 1500 or 2000 feet to reach the nearest and only hydrant in Pueo.

The wind was blowing a gale from the north and live coals from the fire were carried several blocks away. Vigilant work on the roofs of the houses of E. E. Richards and S. C. Shaw and Robert Hawchurst, two blocks away, prevented further fires.

As soon as the fire had done its work, Mrs. Peck and the Misses Peck went to the home of E. D. Baldwin, where they will live until they move into the McKay house which was tendered to Mr. Peck by Mr. McKay in Honolulu when they received wireless notice of the fire. Mrs. Peck and her daughters went through the ordeal bravely and worried more on account of the absent master of the house than they did over the home that vanished before their eyes. The house was Mr. Peck's especial pride. It was built at the cost of nearly $25,000 and in this home he had expected to spend the rest of his days. It had been fitted up without regard to cost and into its arrangement and finish had entered the suggestion and design of the various members of the family. In this home Hilo society had been received with a generous hospitality that exceeded artificial lines and made every one who witnessed the fire, feel it in some degree as a personal loss.

The house was a total loss, covered by insurance aggregating $18,000, as follows:

A. H. Jackson, agent: London and Lancashire $4,000; Westchester, $4,000; National, $2,000; Niagara, $1,000.

Hackfeld & Co., agents: Svea, $5,000.

E. E. Richards, agent: Greenwich, $1,000.

F. S. Lyman, agent: Fireman's

Fund, $1,000.

The furniture was also insured with A. M. Jackson for $5,000, the companies being the Orient and National for $3,000 and $2,000 respectively. In response to a wireless telegram, A. R. Gurrey, adjuster and representative of the Board of Underwriters, will arrive next week to adjust the loss. It is not believed that the loss on furniture will exceed 25 per cent.

The fire started, evidently in the walls or along the ceiling just below the garret floor. Opinions differ as to the source of the fire. An inquiry was held before Judge Hapai Tuesday at which Mr. Mocine, Superintendent of the Electric Light Co. and A. Richley, the architect who built the house were examined. There were other witnesses examined. No definite conclusion was reached.

Riot in Korea.

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 25.—A dangerous riot broke out here yesterday from an accidental cause. There was an accident on the American street railway, in which a Korean was killed. The native populace, which retains the prejudice against the American innovation of rapid transit that caused them to wreck cars when the line was started a few years ago, immediately began rioting to avenge the death of their countryman. The riot was promptly quelled by the guards of the various legations, which have lately been reinforced in anticipation of trouble under the disturbed situation.

In the meantime the Korean soldiers and police took occasion to loot the houses of wealthy natives at Pienzyang.

Kuhio at Work.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Delegate Kuhio of Hawaii introduced bills to prevent the employment of Mongolians on all public works of Hawaii and making eight hours a day's work for all such employment.

Appropriation bills were also introduced by the Delegate providing $250,000 for a survey of Honolulu harbor and $100,000 for a survey of Hilo harbor and work preliminary to the construction of the Hilo break water.

The bill appropriating $225,000 for a revenue cutter for service in Hawaiian waters passed the Senate today.

Vladivostok, Jan. 25.—Russian marines stationed here have committed violent disturbances. Houses were wrecked and maltreated.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—The Council has passed an ordinance which will practically force the suspension of all theaters during the present season.

LOOKS LIKE PEACE.

War Scare in Orient is Now Disappearing.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 26.—A reply to the Japanese note will possibly be delivered this week. The reserves have been ordered to be held in readiness for Far Eastern service.

Tokyo, Jan. 26.—An imperial edict has been issued assuming control of the railways of the empire for military purposes.

Peking, Jan. 26.—China urges the foreign ministers to propose mediation as she is anxious to avoid war.

Seoul, Jan. 26.—The reported landing of Japanese at Nasampho is untrue.

Berlin, Germany, Jan. 25.—The prevailing sentiment in the diplomatic circles of Germany is that the crisis has passed in the Orient. It is believed that Japan and Russia will be able to reach an amicable understanding. War is not expected.

Dessau, Germany, Jan. 25.—Friedrich, Duke of Anhalt, is dead.

Tokio, Jan. 25.—The Minister of Finance of Japan has decided to issue a loan of one hundred million yen (y. 100,000,000).

London, Jan. 25.—Col Lynch has been liberated without a royal pardon, through the mediation of Sir Thomas Lipton.

London, Jan. 26.—It is rumored that the resignations of Lansdowne, Londonderry and Lord Balfour of Burleigh are imminent.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Secretary of the Navy Moody has presented estimates for the appropriation of $862,375 for the development of the Naval Station at Olongopo in the Philippines.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—The Coroner's jury investigating the fatalities from the Iroquois theater fire have held the mayor, fire marshal, building inspectors, proprietor Davis and the employees of the theater, to await the action of the grand jury.

Cheswick, Pa., Jan. 25.—An explosion took place today in the Hawick coal mine shortly after the day shift had gone to work. Over 150 miners are imprisoned. Every effort is being made to rescue them from their perilous
